When disaster strikes, you may not have much time to react. You may be told to evacuate your home or to shelter-in-place. What would you do if basic services like gas, electric, water, electricity, and telephones were lost for an extended amount of time? Local police, fire, and emergency services personnel quickly respond to emergencies. However, in cases of disaster, these workers are quickly overwhelmed and may not be able to assist all victims for up to 72 hours. To prepare your family, you need to make a Family Disaster Plan, Emergency Kit, and Emergency Contact List.
